STORY AT-A-GLANCE

- › It took painstaking deliberation to make the decision to delete more than 15,000 health articles from Mercola.com, which is why I'm so excited to announce that they're now back and accessible via the search feature, allowing you to get answers to your top health questions
- › By providing you with access to this more direct route to the health information that's relevant to you, an increasing number of people will become empowered and able to make the best choices on their journey to optimal health
- › To access your full search results, please join our Substack site, takecontrol.substack.com
- › For just $5 a month, or the discounted annual rate of $50 per year, you will have access to all of my articles, all the time, including the powerful search function; all money for membership fees is donated to support nonprofit health activism
- › Substack is the best way to keep my previously deleted articles alive, as it's protected by PMA, or a private membership association, which offers liability protection

For more than two decades, millions of dedicated readers have followed my website, keeping a close eye on my health recommendations and the treasure trove of health content contained on the pages therein.

Everything from nutrition facts about basil to the most effective exercise techniques and strategies to propel your health to a higher level could be accessed, for free, on Mercola.com, and the search function provided an invaluable way to sort through the incredible amount of health information available.

That all changed in August 2021, when all the content from my site was removed due to legal pressures. The irreplaceable content is not gone, however. Nearly all of Mercola.com's articles from the past three years have been transferred to our Substack site, takecontrol.substack.com.¹

My goal has always been to help you Take Control of Your Health, which is why our daily newsletter will remain free of charge. However, the articles are "ephemeral" and only viewable for 48 hours. After that time, you can view – and search – my entire archive via my Substack library. If you're not familiar with Substack, it's a major free speech platform that many censored journalists are using to share content.

Join Substack – The Best Way to Keep This Content Alive

It took painstaking deliberation to make the decision to delete more than 15,000 health articles from Mercola.com, which is why I'm so excited to announce that they're now back and accessible via the search feature, allowing you to get answers to your top health questions.

By providing you with access to this more direct route to the health information that's relevant to you, an increasing number of people will become empowered and able to make the best choices on their journey to optimal health.

The reason I chose a paid membership platform on Substack is because it will protect all of my content from censorship. For just $5 a month, or the discounted annual rate of $50 per year, you will have access to all of my articles, all the time, including the powerful search function. All money for membership fees is donated to support nonprofit health activism.

Substack is the best way to keep my previously deleted articles alive, as it's protected by PMA, or a private membership association, which offers liability protection. So now, when you visit Mercola.com, you'll see our search bar at the top right of the page.

There you can search for any topic on your mind, from magnesium to electromagnetic fields, and it will take you to your search results in my censored library. To view them, you'll need to join Substack with a private membership. Again, all proceeds from membership fees go toward supporting nonprofit organizations working on health activism.

Get Answers to the Health Questions on Your Mind

With over so many health articles to peruse, the value of the information you'll access via my censored library on Substack is limitless. Fortunately, the search function makes it easy to find the most relevant data and informative articles for your individual needs, refined in a way that makes it easy to sift through the vast amount of collected knowledge.

The answers to your top health questions are only a search away, and the most relevant content will always be displayed first, at the top of the page. You can search directly from Mercola.com or from my censored library on Substack.

In the Archive section, you can also sort articles according to most recent – via the “New” tab – or by “Top” articles, which are those that are the most popular. There's also a “Discussion” tab, where you can access comments on some of our top articles and even join in the conversation yourself.

As always, if you're using your cellphone or tablet to access my site, the features on Mercola.com are mobile-friendly – and that includes the search engine. Just click on the magnifying glass at the top right of your screen, and you'll be automatically directed to my censored library on Substack, where you can sign up today.

A useful feature is that you'll be able to see the search results even before you join, giving you a glimpse into the massive amount of information in our library. I personally use the search box almost every day to access past articles. I've written about so many topics that even I sometimes find it difficult to keep track of all the information. The trending queries for 2022 are listed below:

Cardio Metabolic health	Secure Emergency Water
Shelf Stable Food	Niacinamide
Polycrisis of Doom	Melatonin

Start Your Journey to Taking Control of Your Health

Health questions on your mind? The answers are only a quick search away now that this useful tool is back. I'm so happy to bring this powerful feature back to Mercola.com and hope it will become a trusted partner in your journey to Take Control of Your Health.
